

Application for International M.A. Program in Economics

For October 2019 Admission

Department of Economics

Yokohama National University

Japan

Preface

The Department of Economics at Yokohama National University (YNU), located in the second largest metropolis in Japan, launched a new graduate program in Fall 2013 (both M.A. and Ph.D.) in economics taught entirely in English. The program is designed to provide students with academic knowledge and tools in economic theory and empirics of the highest global standards, and at the same time is well-grounded in policy-relevance. We seek motivated students from all over the world, who are eager to work as academic researchers, specialists or professionals in the international arena. Our program has two distinctive paths. First, we offer an American-style economics program with an emphasis on international economics. Second, we also offer a policy-oriented program employing both comparative economic systems and political economy approaches.

Graduates of the M.A. Program (typically taking two years) will leave YNU with a broad, but high level of knowledge in economics. Together with an in-depth knowledge of domestic, regional, and international affairs in both developed and emerging economies, graduates can apply these skills in their future careers, whether it be in government, the private sector, or if they choose to continue on an academic path.

Our M.A. Program welcomes not only those applicants straight out of a Bachelor's degree, but also those who already have some work experience and who strive to improve and augment their existing knowledge of economics to a level equivalent to a US or European graduate school.

Our M.A. program offers not only an American-style economic track, but also a policy-oriented research track. First, in the core, students can learn graduate level microeconomics, macroeconomics, statistics, economic systems and economic policy. Second, in the advanced courses, various fields are offered such as international economics, public economics/finance, economic development and environmental economics. Advanced microeconomics and advanced statistics (econometrics) can also be pursued further. Third, each student has the option of either taking a Qualifying Examination or writing a traditional Master's thesis, in addition to the required credits, for fulfillment of the degree. Those who choose to write a thesis will be instructed by his/her own academic supervisor (one of our faculty members). The aim of our curriculum is to cultivate not only candidates who wish to pursue doctoral research, but also business experts and internationally-minded civil servants specializing in economic analysis. The degree of Master of Arts in Economics is conferred upon completion of the program.

International M.A. Program in Economics (IMAP) stems from several of our existing M.A. programs conducted in English, which are based on agreements with the World Bank and the Indonesian government and have admitted around ten public servants from developing countries a year since 1996. We have decided to launch IMAP as an open M.A. program in order to attract students from diverse backgrounds, however small its initial scale may be relative to our existing M.A. program conducted in Japanese.

The scholarship (graduate level) is paid in the monthly amount determined for that traditional Japanese school year (April-March). The amount is subject to change each year. For reference, the monthly stipend for the 2018-2019 school year is 48,000 yen.

After a scholarship has been reserved for an applicant, it is awarded for a certain period that is based on the time when the applicant enrolls in a Japanese graduate school. For students enrolling in the International Ph.D. Program in Economics in October 2019, duration of the scholarship is six months, from October 2019 to March 2020. Students need to compete for the Monbukagakusho (regular) Honors Scholarships or other scholarships for privately financed international students during the subsequent period.

All applications must be processed through YNU. Direct applications from students will not be accepted.

The 2019-2020 application for MEXT Honors Scholarship by Pre-arrival Admission (University Recommenders) must be made after matriculation.

2) MEXT Honors Scholarship for Privately Financed International Students

Privately financed international students studying at YNU are eligible to apply for MEXT Honors scholarships offered by JASSO. Application for the scholarship should be made through university recommendation. Please note that the JASSO scholarship is highly competitive.

(4) Other scholarships

Scholarships from Foreign Government, private organizations and non-governmental organizations

1) Foreign Government Scholarships

Foreign Government Scholarships are available for those who are sent to Japan to study by the government of their home country. Please inquire at the relevant authority in your country for details.

The foreign government scholarship recipients will receive priority in their housing application for a furnished room with internet connection in the Ooka International Residence or Tokiwadai International Residence, from which the average commute time to YNU is 40 minutes.

2) Scholarships from private organizations and non-governmental organizations in Japan

Please note that these scholarships are highly competitive.

You can apply on your own.

The following chart shows scholarships offered by MEXT, JASSO (i.e. MEXT Honors Scholarships), YNU and foreign governments or other organizations for privately financed international students.

Housing

Ooka International Residence

Ooka International Residence is a quality housing complex for the international community of students, researchers, faculty and administrative staff of YNU, aimed to promote multicultural exchanges and mutual understanding. The average commute time to YNU is 40 minutes.

International students with Japanese government (Monbukagakusho: MEXT) or foreign government scholarships are given priority in applications to Ooka International Residence (as of 2018).

International Student House and Minesawa International Student Dormitory

YNU has two dormitories for its international students: YNU International Student House and the Minesawa International Student Dormitory. The former dormitory is a 5-minute walk from Gumyoji subway station. The latter dormitory is a 5-minute walk from the university. The Minesawa International Student Dormitory has only single rooms, and the International Student House has shared rooms and family rooms as well as single rooms.

There are two periods for moving into the dormitory: April and October. The maximum length of residency is one year. There are monthly residence fees and charges.

Applications to fill vacant rooms are accepted twice each year. Because of the large number of applicants, residents are selected by lottery. International students with Japanese government (Monbukagakusho: MEXT) or foreign government scholarships cannot apply for a single room in Minesawa or International Student House (as of 2018).

For more details, please refer to the application guidelines distributed by the Student Support Division in early July.
